CONFLUENCE.

Interesting Items From Somerset County's Hustling Town.

Confluence, May 26.—Henry Kurtz, and old and respected citizen of our town, died very suddenly last evening from acute dilation of the stomach. Mr. Kurtz had been ailing for some time and had gone to Atlantic City, where he resided for about a year for his health. His improvement seemed to be slow and he returned to his old home this spring and put himself under the care of Dr. Bowman. He appeared to be improving so much that he was looking after the repair of some of his property and decided to go to Connellsville, Wednesday, along with his wife, to do some shopping. They came home on No. 16 and Mr. Kurtz went home. While in his yard he took a fainting spell. His physician was immediately called and it was found he was suffering from intense prostration. He died about 6:45 P.M.

Henry Kurtz was the father of municipal improvement and progress in Confluence. He laid the first water lines in the town, built the first electric light plant and was always foremost in plan and action when the best interests of the pretty little town were at stake. In the face of strong opposition he prospered. In his own quiet way, always generous to fault and a friend who never failed in the time of need.

He was a son of nature, and his happiest days were spent along the trout streams of his native mountains. He was known far and wide as the most skilled fisherman in the Confluence region, where fishing is the pastime of both old and young. In the springtime, when more than a dozen nimrods were unsuccessful, the older ones would shake their heads wisely and say, "Wait till Henry Kurtz goes. Then the trout will start to come in."

Since his health improved recently he was much interested in the improvements about his pretty new home. He personally supervised the work of the carpenters and masons and seemed happy in his new-found activity. His venerable presence and kindly smile will be missed by his many friends here. His memory will tell of a long and useful life—a life well spent and full of hopefulness to others.

A severe rain and electric storm came up Wednesday evening shortly after 7 o'clock and for several hours the elements of the air waged their conflict. While the storm raged many people were ill at ease with nothing to quiet their fears. Those persons were the ones who failed to buy The Daily Courier last evening. Those who bought The Daily Courier had plenty to keep their fears allayed. So you see it is a wise thing to have a Daily Courier fresh from the press every evening.

THE HAWKINS MONUMENT.

The dedication of the Hawkins monument is at hand, but there is still a sum of money to be raised to pay the expenses of the ceremonies. Connellsville should provide its proportionate share of this sum, which is set at $500.

This amount ought not to violently strain the public spirit, private generosity or individual patriotism of the people of this town, and we have no doubt the money can be raised many times over if somebody will take the matter in hand and make the canvas.

In fact, the money is half raised already. There remains a balance over from the reception ceremonies here, which together with the amount subscribed at the time, makes something over $200 now available.

Here's an opportunity for the Ladies' Circle of the Grand Army of the Republic. The ladies could raise the balance in a jiffy.

The green grass has been set to growing on all the grounds except those around the City Hall. Shall it be said that the Reform Council is the only public body that really does not "do" it?

THE BUBBLES.

There's a huffing and a puffing On the thoroughfares today. There's a dash of polished brasses Over on South Side Speedway; There's a hiss of steam escaping And the breath of gasoline.

For our Citizen Chaffeurs Have been spending their iron

And a bony Ted Devils.

Now are speeding round about

Vasellating in a crazy

Trot to toss their drivers out;

Stopping suddenly when starting

Waving round from side to side

Making all the "dreadful owners"

"Most afraid to take a ride

Loafers are on Brimstone Corner

All are in a nervous state;

Fearful of the Daring Devils

Kind of Democratic or two.

Photographs have been taken of the loafers

There for years in shiny or rain

But they can't stand any numbers

Now, before the fall campaign,

Now the daring "bubble" drivers

See now the fun in the way;

It is rumored that the "Devils"

Must observe the Sabbath Day.

Temperance Union may decree it,

But they don't care much, I think.

For there's not much fun in searching

When you cannot get a drink?

I think of a new use for automobile tires. This is a County of Injunctions. Several times Sheriff Frock has been compelled to use the fastest horses in Uniontown in order to catch two men the Young Valley in time to stop something. I respectfully suggest that the county purchase a Roll Devil for use in such emergencies. I think it would be a wise and judicious expenditure, seeing I for the injured man has a confirmed one in the community.

An enterprising country lad in New York State has been selling imaginary stock to the investing public. "Lunar Oil" was one of them. Any man who would be stock in an oil company operating on the moon must be "luny."

A member of the anthracite coal trust says the price of coal depends upon what the people are willing to pay for it. That devils. When times are bad and operators are desperate, the answer he is to give is when times are bumper, the best price on the other leg. That's the price of coal I, what the stock is a "luny" to sell it for.

Faithful unto death.

Pasque, he took the dog home, fed him up on tea until he was strong and now there isn't a healthier, happier canine in Connellsville. "Shep" is one of the grateful kind, for now he regularly drives his master's cow to and from her pasture.

A WARM CONTEST.

Between Star Junction and Blythedale

Last Saturday, Star Junction, May 26.—Star Junction A. C. lost to the Blythedale Reds here last Saturday by a score of 1 to 0, in the fastest contest of nine innings ever seen on the home grounds, the time occupied for the game being but 25 minutes.

Thrasher, who was on the rubber for Star Junction, pitched the best game ever played by him on the home or any other grounds, and with the excellent support accorded him by the whole team, could have doubtless reversed the score, but for misplay on the part of the visitors which would have cut off the only score made by the visitors. This, however, could not be classed as an error, as the sun was responsible, being in the player's eyes when trying to field an easy fly, which would have relieved the side.

The contest was a pitchers' battle all the way, and besides the first fielding of the visitors, another feature worthy of mention is the surprising improvement shown in all art and playing of the home team.

Another warm contest is looked for next Saturday May 28, when the Pittsburgh Postoffice clerks, who are selected to play the first Division team Division Day, will be here. Arrangements have been made to run a train from Layton to Star Junction upon the arrival of the afternoon train on the B. & O. Game will be played at 2 p.m.

If the hose you wear are from "McClure's" that's a pretty good guarantee that there is real worth and wear in them.

JIM, SHE BIT A BOY.

That's What Got N. Yokaba, Musician, Into the Toils of Justice.

A CONCERT IN CITY HALL

Cheered Up the Prisoners and Produced a Southern Cake Walk by Miss Bogue—"Indiana Ann" Made a Record in Wonderful Weeping.

"Jim, she bit a boy," is what Nicholas Yokaba tells you when you ask him how himself, his monkey and his hand organ came to be lodgers in the police station over last night. Jim is the name of Nick's monkey. It seems that Max Rittenberg, one of the juvenile sons of L. Rittenberg, the Pittsburgh street clothier, was punching Jim in the stats with a sharp stick when Jim, resenting the treatment, bit a piece of Hebrew out of the boy's leg. "Irish Tom" came along and at the request of Rittenberg arrested the musical organization.

At 5 o'clock this morning Constable James W. Mitchell went down to City Hall and started a concert on the hand organ. The prisoners were awakened by the sweet strains of "Just One Girl," "She's a Bird in a Gilded Cage" and a rag time medley. Mary Bogue and Fannie Parker started a cake walk in the Ladies' Department, while Anna Burke did something that looked like a cross between an Irish reel and the Highland fling.

The Courier reporter was playing the organ when Yokaba came in with his fine. He had been released, taking Jim along and leaving the organ for a forfeit. He doled out $15 in all the denominations of currency known to the United States mint. Nick and Jim and the organ went on their way rejoicing and the Twenty-Fourth Street Nickel had the fifteen cent cent shy when he took it to the bank to get it bulk reduced.

Salt water was on tap in police court last evening when Miss Anna Burke was in the dock. She turned on the wet goods as soon as she appeared, and before she was remanded to the cell room by the Burgess she had produced something like a pint of the briny.

"Did you meet up with any friends this time?" asked the Burgess as the prisoner entered a plea of not guilty. "I was all by myself," she said, "and took a drink because I was mad at my sister. I'm not a bad woman. St. Peter can tell them that I drink a little now and then, but that's all he can say. I work hard every day, but when I get mad at someone I must have liquor. That's what's the matter now. Mrs. Burke will be held until her jag of anger wears off."

THE JUNE DOCKET

Being Arranged in the Office of Prothonotary.

William McClelland, of the Prothonotary's office at Uniontown, has been working hard for the past few days in putting the cases for June court on the various dockets. The name of defendant, style of case, charge, prosector and all other information required is entered on the dockets in each case so that when it is disposed of in court all that needs to be done is to turn to the number of each case and note the sentence or whatever disposition is made of it.

This is always a big job before each session of court, but when McClelland begins it he usually stays right with it until the last entry has been made.

Brennan was in town all day yesterday and was drinking considerably.

He had come to the Cottage State Hospital with William Logan, who had both legs amputated. Brennan missed the last car home and started to walk.

Motorman Hamilton and Conductor Luker were bringing last car in off the Vanderbilt division. Brennan was struck at Fairview Farm, on the Leisering road. The motorman did not see him until the car was only a short distance away. Brennan staggered against the approaching car and was knocked down but not run over. His face and head were badly crushed, concussion probably causing death. His collar bone was broken.

Friends of the dead man came to town today to make the necessary funeral arrangements. Brennan was 40 years of age. He leaves a wife and family.

DOCTRINE VS. UNION.

Presbyterian Giants Engage Each Other on Absorbing Question.

GREAT DEBATE IN ASSEMBLY

President Patton of Princeton Opposes and President Moffatt of W. and J. Discuss Question of Doctrinal Differences With Southern Brethren.

Buffalo, May 27.—Last night's session of the Presbyterians assembly closed amid great excitement and with the question of union with the Cumberland branch still unsettled. When the moderator declared the session adjourned a dozen men were clamoring for recognition and confusion reigned in all parts of the house.

A resolution offered by the Rev. John F. Carson of Brooklyn fixing the time for taking the vote on the question precipitated the crisis. Points of order, questions of privilege and amendments came from a score of commissioners at the same time. When a semblance of order was restored the resolution was finally passed. It fixes the time for a vote at 11:30 today and limits the remaining addresses to ten minutes each.

Dr. Francis L. Patton, president of Princeton theological seminary, spoke in opposition to the union, calling special attention to the distinctive points of difference between the Presbyterians and the Cumberland church.

The Cumberland church is distinctively Arminian, and does not contain the doctrine of election, of irresistible grace, of several other well-recognized Calvinistic doctrines.

"The Cumberland church still holds to its own doctrines," Dr. Patton concluded. "We have every reason to know they are not Calvinistic. They believe we have changed our confession. We have simply removed certain infelicities of expression. We have not changed. I want to know how you are going to unite Calvinism and Arminianism."

Dr. James D. Moffatt, president of Washington and Jefferson college, the leader of the union party, followed Dr. Patton. He read selections from the Cumberland confession, pointing out the similarity it bore to the Westminster confession as revised in 1903.

and said that it was too narrow a view to fail to urge the rejection of the Cumberland church on doctrinal points, where it takes a Princeton theological seminary president to point them out and he fails to do so.

Dr. J. Ross Stevenson read a telegram from the Rev. W. P. Bobb from Dallas, inquiring whether the Presbyterian church has elaborated the doctrine of unconditional election and irresistible grace from the Westminster confession and if a constitutional majority would approve of this interpretation. His reply, which he read, was that the revisers of the convention left the Calvinistic system, including the doctrines mentioned, intact.

WITHERSPOON MODERATOR, Condition of United Presbyterian Church Shown by Reports.

Greenville, Pa., May 27.—Dr. J. W. Witherspoon of the Allegheny, Pa., presbytery, has been elected moderator of the general assembly of the United Presbyterian church, in session here.

The committee on narrative reported as follows: Membership, 123,145; new Sunday schools 33; increase in Sunday school contributions $12,582; average minister's salary, $1,113; total contributions for all purposes, $1,367,444; increase, $100,000.

There is a decrease of 900 in the membership of the Young People's society. A decline in family worship is reported.

In response to inquiries, presbyteries have reported a strong belief in the inspiration of the Bible as the word of God. Only a few presbyteries mentioned pantheism or opposition to secret societies.

RUPTURE IS ABSOLUTE.

Papal Nuncio Absents Himself From French Diplomatic Function.

Paris, May 27.—The absence of Mgr. Lorenzelli, the papal nuncio, from the foreign office on the regular diplomatic day was construed by his colleagues as being evidence of the interruption of diplomatic relations between the Holy See and France. As dean of the diplomatic corps Mgr. Lorenzelli has invariably headed the visitors.

Foreign Minister Delcasse informed the ambassadors that Mgr. Nisard's recall as ambassador to the Vatican was absolute and unqualified.

According to reliable information the Vatican authorities have instructed Monsignor Lorenzelli, the nuncio at Paris, to leave Paris if he is able to foresee that it is the intention of the government to give him his passports.

MAY HAVE BEEN MURDERED.

Body of Atlanta Working Girl Found in Water Reservoir.

Atlanta, Ga., May 27.—The body of Miss Sophie Kloedter was found in the water works pond at Lakewood, a suburb of Atlanta. She left home Tuesday morning, presumably to go to her work.

There are indications of suicide but a rumor is in circulation that she was soon Tuesday with a man not far from the place where the body was found. Members of her family say there is no reason why she should have killed herself.

Wounded Guard Is Dead. Columbus, Ga., May 27.—Henry Gehrhardt, the guard who was shot at the penitentiary by Frank Green, a convict who afterward killed himself, is dead from his injuries. His body will be taken to Ireland for burial. The convict's body will be turned over to a medical college.

DUNBAR.

Events of the Day in the Busy Furnace Town.

Dunbar, May 27.—At the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Wilhelm Zerkler on Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock was celebrated the marriage of Miss Eva Maude Grant of Sydney, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, and Warner Gibson Taylor of Stanhope, N. J. The officiating clergyman was Rev. James B. Hill, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Miss Grant is of an old Nova Scotia family and Mr. Taylor is a descendant of one of the famous old families of Virginia. His mother was one of the belles of the old régime on the James river. She was a Harrison, of a family line collateral with that of Ex-President William Henry Harrison.

The bride was daintily gowned in white organdy. The wedding was a quiet affair owing to recent bereavements in both families, only a few guests being present. Mr. and Mrs. Taylor will reside in Stanhope, N. J., where Mr. Taylor is connected with the Musco Net Cong Iron Works.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bachman and two children were poisoned on Wednesday by eating canned salmon.

The family live at Morrell and when their attending physician, Dr. D. T. McKeeney, went down to see them on Wednesday he found them all in a very serious condition. They were much better Thursday morning and the doctor thinks they will all recover.

They had all eaten of the canned salmon for supper and they are once again very sick. The can had been partly opened for a few days and the family think that the salmon standing open had become poisoned.

David Grier lost a valuable cow on Wednesday.

N. Mangold of Pittsburgh is here painting the interior of the St. Alloysius Church.

M. Crowley, a B. & O. lineman, was here Wednesday looking after the condition of the wires at this place.

New porches have been erected to the houses along Wilsford row on Connellsville street.

O. R. Carpenter of Connellsville was up yesterday on business.

R. T. Pratt, a representative of the Car Service Association of Pittsburgh, was in town yesterday morning.

A prominent citizen of Connellsville came up the other evening and got on a spree. He was taken in by the local officers, and discharged upon the payment of a fine.

Mrs. R. D. Jones is visiting at the home of her parents in Millwood, Pa.

Prof. J. S. Carroll is having a new piano erected around his lot that will add greatly to the appearance of his property.

"Mick" Solkonka was in Connellsville, Thursday, on a business mission.

The Borough Council held a special meeting on Wednesday evening to discuss the moving of some telephone poles that interfere with the street railway company running through their passing siding here. Final action will likely be taken at the next regular meeting.

There are many places that should have the attention of Council, as many streets are partly blocked with large piles of dirt and stone. The removal of the same would add to the appearance of the town and the safety of the people as well.

The following names appeared on the register at the Central Hotel here yesterday: Elmer Cartwright, Greenburg; W. O. Waring, Ashtabula; O. L. Einstein, E. Leithold, P. Grassi, Robert Mauro and W. H. Caff, all of Pittsburgh, and W. G. Taylor of Stanhope, N. J.

Rev. D. E. Minerd will deliver a sermon in the Union church at Mt. Braddock, Decoration Day, at 9:30 A. M. After the sermon they will form ranks and march to Percy, where they will decorate the graves. They will go from the cemetery to the Percy church, where Rev. E. J. Wilson will deliver sermon. The procession will be headed by the Percy brass band.
